Jared Montz, recently retired pro and creator/coach of America's 1st Online Soccer Academy, is hosting his pre-college training camp for players 14-18 years old. Jared played professional for 4 years, mostly with the Chicago Fire (MLS) and then the Puerto Rico Islanders (USL), after which he made the decision to retire due to injury. He started as a Mandeville Laker and then graduated from Mandeville High School. After MHS, he became a member of the 2003 undefeated National Collegiate Championship team at Lynn University before graduating with honors in 2005. He has played against international superpower A.C. Milan (Italy's finest), Club America (Mexican Powerhouse) and has scrimmaged against the US National Team. This camp is designed to teach players how to make it to the next level, college! Jared will teach the players the soccer smarts he has now that he wished he could have had at their age. Players will learn how to create their own luck versus waiting to get lucky. Jared will provide an information packet consisting of his story and advice, advice from pros and college coaches, and the do's and don'ts of trying to get recruited to play college soccer.
